Photoshop's Layers Photoshop uses layers for organizing and manipulating digital images. Layers are groups of images, text, colors, shapes, or other selected items that can be moved, or lifted, for editing purposes. In a digital photograph, every layer is a separate image that can be edited and manipulated and viewed at the same time. While you can try Photoshop CS3 without using layers, they are a Photoshop staple and essential element in creating digital images. Layers exist in most image-editing programs, but Photoshop's Layers panel makes it easy to manipulate and combine images with ease. In Photoshop CS3 you have over 60 predefined layers, including Composite, Collage, Pencil, X-Acto, etc., as well as an unlimited number of your own custom layers. This chapter goes over how to create, apply, and use layers so you can take advantage of their many tools.

Jim York, a San Francisco Chronicle columnist, claimed it would be a "sad day" if then-San Francisco Mayor Gavin Newsom played a "pivotal role" in defeating a proposed ballot initiative, Proposition B, on the November 8, 2008, ballot to legalize the recreational use of marijuana. York cited the fact that the campaign manager for Proposition B, Dan Newman, had been the campaign manager for Newsom, the unsuccessful 2000 and 2004 Democratic nominee for California Governor. York had previously been a staunch supporter of Newsom, calling him a "honest and a decent man" and a "principled leader." Yet, he had grown disenchanted with Newsom's support for Proposition B. He characterized the proposed passage of the measure as a threat to "public safety," a cause he supported, but which he admitted could not be "lumped" with Newsom's other positions. He went so far as to imply a conflict of interest and characterize the campaign as being "underwritten by money connected to San Francisco's powerful Democratic machine." On March 23, 2008, the San Francisco Chronicle reported that Newsom had formed an exploratory committee to consider a run for California governor and was "hopeful" that he would be the Democratic nominee in November. 2008 gubernatorial election On February 9, 2008, Newsom announced his campaign to be the Democratic Party's candidate in California's 2008 election for governor. In contrast to Newsom's 2004 campaign, in which he was viewed as a candidate of the party's "progressive" wing, by 2008 Newsom had attracted support from across the Democratic Party, which had in the meantime gone in a more moderate direction. Newsom became the first major candidate who was openly gay, and many of his supporters were worried about the potential effects that this might have on the overall campaign. John McCain won the California Republican primary on March 4, 2008, drawing on the image of a "maverick," a label which he had earned as one of the 2008 Republican Party presidential candidate nominees. California also holds a nonpartisan blanket primary, in which all candidates are listed on one ballot, and all voters must vote for the candidate they wish to be elected. Newsom lost in the primary by a margin of 53% to 47%. He received 207,000 votes, compared with 1.1 million for McCain and 3.1 million for Republican Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger. The margin of victory was below that expected for the

Q: While Loop not increasing # cells I am attempting to write code for a problem I was working on for practice and I have ran into a problem I am not sure how to resolve. I am coding a binary tree problem in VBA and I have successfully coded the procedure to write to a cell in the form of a binary tree. I am now attempting to add another while loop to read the value of an iterating variable 'k' which is compared to a provided numerical value and added to the cell. The issue is that it does not appear to be increasing or following the logic of the original for loop. It appears as if once it reaches $k=4$ the second loop stops and the 1,1,1,1 is added to the 1,1,1,1. Here is my code. 'Function to write to a cell in the form of a Binary Tree Function

WriteToCell(c As Integer, K As Integer)
Dim i As Integer Dim j As Integer Dim l
As Integer Dim k As Integer K = K + 1 If K = 1 Then WriteToCell = c Else If c >= 2
Then WriteToCell = WriteToCell(c - 1, K)
& "1" Else WriteToCell = "1" & "1" & "1"
& "1" End If For i = 1 To K For j = 1 To K
If c = K Then WriteToCell = WriteToCell
& "1" Else If c > K Then
```
